Excise Captain to Lead FBI National Academy's Indiana Chapter

INDIANAPOLIS (Nov. 9) – An Indiana State Excise Police captain was installed as president of Indiana's chapter of graduates of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's National Academy in Indianapolis yesterday.

Captain Greg Deitchley, who oversees excise police field operations for northern Indiana, will begin his duties as president in January 2013. He had been Sergeant-at-Arms previously.

Captain Deitchley graduated from the 197th session of the FBI National Academy in Quantico, Va., in June 1999.

The FBI National Academy, which began in 1935, is an invitation-only training program bringing together leaders and managers of state and local police, sheriffs' departments, military police organizations, and federal law enforcement agencies.

"It was an honor to be present when Captain Deitchley was inducted as president of the Indiana chapter of FBI National Academy graduates," Superintendent Matt Strittmatter said. "He will represent the agency well and will continue to network with law enforcement professionals nationwide to gather information that will enhance the state excise police mission."

As the enforcement division of the Indiana Alcohol and Tobacco Commission, the primary mission of the Indiana State Excise Police is to promote public safety by enforcing Indiana's Alcoholic Beverage Code. While excise officers have the authority to enforce any state law, they focus primarily on alcohol, tobacco and related laws.
